

We the undersigned, ask the South African Government, attention Dr Pakishe Aaron Motsoaledi, Minister of Health, to bring about urgent and necessary change regarding the testing of cosmetics and personal care, using animals who suffer in cruel experiments and are routinely injected, gassed, force-fed and killed. We believe this is both unnecessary and ethically unacceptable. Modern technology and up to date non-animal methods are available, which are more reliable, faster and are cheaper than the animal tests they replace. The European Union, India, Israel and now Brazil have all banned animal testing, proving it is possible to have a thriving cosmetics industry without cruel animal tests.
